MADRASI STREET SNACKS

M.C.C. Masala Peanuts — $6
The legendary Madras Cricket Club peanuts with dry spices, the perfect accompaniment to any drink.

Marina Sundal — $7
The 2nd longest beach in the world may produce the 1st best romantic-beachside-moment dish, or not: Chickpeas or dry green peas cooked and tossed with coconut, curry leaves and mustard seeds with chilli. Lovely.

Masala Vadai — $9
Chana Dhal soaked and ground to make an uneven mixture to tantalise the taste buds with its crunchy but smooth taste. A true Southern Indian favourite.

Buhari's Chicken 65 — $12
Madras's flock in spades to Buhari to sample this famous Marinated chicken recipe — spiced chicken, fried to the point of 'Holy-shivah!'

Mutton Balls — $9
(a.k.a. Kola Urunda)
Don't be put off by the infamous Seinfeld episode! Lamb mince with herbs, spices, besan flour, onion and chilli perfectly portion.

Amma's Fish Cutlet — $12
Jack mackerel with potato fresh coriander, chillies — crumbed and deep fried. Thankyou Jack.

Gangotree's Famous Pav Bhaji — $12
Introduced to Madras and made famous by Gangotree, these buttered buns are served with a bhaji made with mashed mixed vegetable, and a dash of incredible.

Ratna Cafe Idli Sambar — $9
Idli; steamed dumplings (proper healthy) served with lentil curry. These two are like a match made in Tamil heaven and a dash of incredible.

MADRASI MAINS

Chettinadu Chicken — $19.50
Curry not as popular as butter chicken (yet), in the opposite spectrum in spice level with dry roasted spices and cooked to perfection.

Goat Curry — $19.50
Gippsland reared boer goat, slow cooked with herbs and spices to fall off the bone.

Vegetable Kurma — $17.50
Mixed vegetables cooked through a southern Indian style kurma like no other.

Paruppu — $15
Traditional South Indian yellow lentils with mustard seeds and curry leaves

Meen Kulumbu — $21
Traditional fish curry with tamarind and coconut.

Biryani — $19.50
Indian style risotto cooked with meat and spices.

Large Plain Rice — $5
Parotta Bread — $3
